The Future of Packaging Design
Towards a smart and sustainable era

International Symposium
6th December 2019
Opificio Golinelli, Bologna

The Future of Packaging Design is:

- An international symposium that will take place on December 6, 2019 at Fondazione Golinelli in Bologna. A study day that aims to present the results of our research on innovations in the Packaging sector at an international level and to designate, also through the direct testimonies of protagonists from around the world and from the Packaging Valley, the drivers that push this sector into the future.
- An ongoing academic research and observing project involving over 80 international surveyors and experts, committed to reporting cases of innovation or sustainability driven by design in the packaging
